Even before we went into lockdown our high streets were facing an existential crisis. It's not just their survival that's at stake.

Questions need to be asked about their very purpose.

Grimsey: Build Back Better 2020

Could the new normal be a better normal?

Greater numbers working at home

Less commuting

Lower mobility but more cycling and walking

Staycations – reorientation of tourism markets?

Shopping locally in smaller centres

Orientation of public transport networks?

The New Normal?

Online retailing

Slow recovery of comparison centres

High density suburban resid?

New activity hours/days 4 day week?

20min places?

Suburban offices?

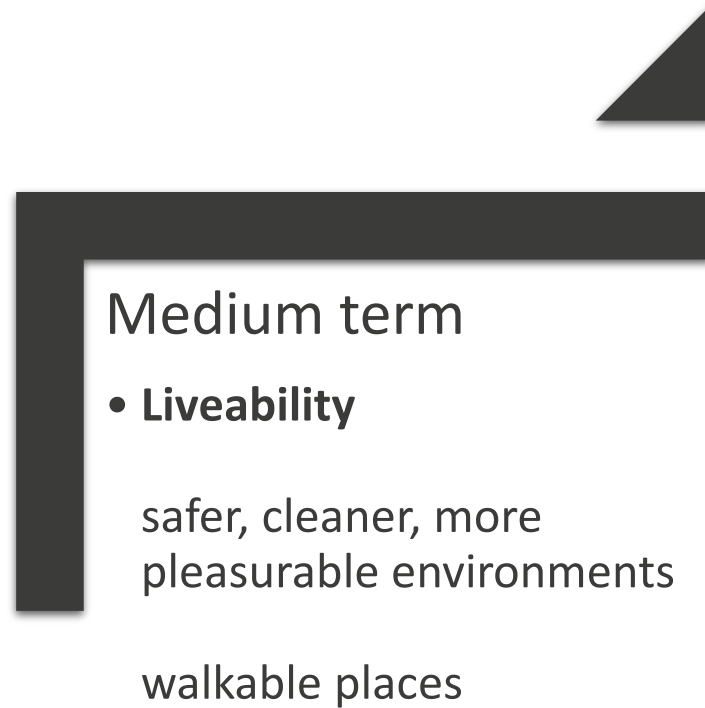

Flexible working space?

Short term

- Place assurance creating environments which give people confidence to visit centres

Medium term

- Liveability

safer, cleaner, more pleasurable environments

walkable places

Longer term

- Sustainability

help places address zero carbon agenda and mitigate climate change

What is blocking transformation?

Place leadership not widely understood

Real capacity gap in local authorities

Lack of effective partnerships

Very few visions, most lack evidence

Little real engagement by community and businesses
